Help! Can you help me read the Bible?!

On our bookstall we have a variety of bible reading notes that folk can use to help them grow in their faith and form a habit of reading the bible each day. Most give a short bible passage for each day along with an explanation of what the passage means and how it applies to our lives.

There are also a wide selection of online resources:

Bible in One Year—www.bibleinoneyear.org— takes you through the bible over the course of a year along with relevant commentary provided by Nicky Gumbel (Alpha Course). You can sign up to receive daily emails and there is a good app as well. There are 3 readings each day which makes this lengthy so one idea would be to just do the New Testament or Old Testament reading each day instead of both.

Soul Survivor bible.soulsurvivor.com (designed for students and young people but useful for anyone) have an app to help you read the whole Bible or the New Testament in a year. There is a video commentary for each day where the reading is applied to everyday life. Again there is an app that can be downloaded from the website.

WordLive -wordlive.org—is from Scripture Union and has a variety of bible reading notes and guides.

First5.org has a resource by women for women in the form of an app and alarm clock. The idea is to start your day with a 5 minute devotion. It takes one verse a day (in consecutive order) and gives a useful comment and a “Wrap-up” video at the weekend. Definitely worth a try—especially for beginners.
